

Singapore is adequately protected from coastal flooding in the immediate future. The Government is also looking into Singapore's long-term coastal protection needs.